

Climate Change

The Facts 2020

EDITED BY JENNIFER MAROHASY

In Climate Change: The Facts 2020 scientists, economists and other experts critique current climate science and the failings of key national and global climate organisations while advancing our understanding of climate change.

Richard Lindzen, Geoffrey Duffy, Hendrik Svensmark and Peter Ridd focus on the physics of climate and the role of water vapour in the atmosphere. Their contributions point the way to a new, more coherent theory of climate.

In key chapters the cost of failed climate programs is explained, and institutional reforms and policy making truly based on evidence are advocated.

In a vital section on the biology, geology and temperature records of the north and south poles, Donna Laframboise, Susan Crockford, Howard Brady and Roy Spencer challenge the common narrative of runaway warming and stressed ecosystems.

A Ridiculous Man

Donald Trump and the Verdict of History

NORMAN ABJORENSEN

The election of Donald Trump as the 45th president of the United States in 2016 was a pivotal moment not just for America but for the world. A celebrity rather than a politician, Trump promised to turn politics on its head – and he did. But was he an aberration or did he represent a continuity of forces already in play? Who was he, where did he come from, and what did he do? These are questions future historians will ask as they grapple with the meaning of Trump, the implications of his presidency, and his place in history.

Like a Wicked Noah's Ark

The Nautical School Ships
Vernon & Sobraon

SARAH LUKE

Step back in time to 1860s Sydney, when ragged children populated the harbour city's slums, picking pockets and scraping a living selling matches and watercress. Neglected youths formed the city's gangs, thieving and assaulting the unwary. These 'larrikins' often ended up in gaol, and received a thorough criminal education from Fagin-esque professors of the art.

In 1867 a solution to this problem was found. Fitted out for the reception of New South Wales' delinquent and abandoned boys, a Nautical School Ship was moored permanently within sight of Circular Quay on Sydney Harbour. The Colony's prisons were drained of their young inmates, and they were herded together in their dozens – and later, hundreds – on board.

Like a Wicked Noah's Ark is the full and close-up history of this ground-breaking experiment in juvenile reformation, which operated continuously until 1911 on the Vernon and Sobraon.

A Wedding Beneath a Banyan Tree

A Rich Tapestry of Family History

GANGA KUMAR POWELL

A rich tapestry of family history woven into the history of pre-independence India. Ganga Kumar Powell navigates the by-ways and highways of her unconventional family story and the turbulent times, deftly joining the dots. Theosophy, with its subversive message of universal brotherhood, is a part of this story and the life of her family. Explorations into the political and social history of the times give the book depth alongside the colour, charm and intimacy of personal connections. Written with warmth and a light touch, this engaging account will appeal to readers from the subcontinent as well as Indophiles, armchair historians and genealogy buffs.

Mental Health in the Times of the Pandemic

PAUL VALENT

"The pandemic threw our world up in the air. We deal with the immediacy of survival. We try to orientate ourselves, but our minds are in a fog. We are captured by many feelings and sensations ..."

The purpose of this book is to help us make sense of the very wide mental health effects of this pandemic, and thereby to relieve distress and fashion a better future.

Paul Valent is an internationally renowned traumatologist with a background in Medicine, Psychiatry and Psychotherapy.
